Canadian Woods in Winter.
The country of the Little Saguenay is as rough as any part of the Rocky mountains. It is the custom to dress lightly for traveling, notwithstanding the 20 degrees below zero, and even then one perishes very freely, making it impossible to stay long for a rest, on account of the chill of the open pores. Ice forms on eyebrows, hair and mustache, while the sweat freezes in scales on the back of one's neck. The snow falls from the trees on the voyager, and melting slightly from the heat of the body, forms a cake of ice. Shades of Nauman and all the arctic men! I do not understand why they are not all pillars of ice unless it be that there are no trees to dump snow on them.

The spruce and hemlock of these parts all point upward as straight as one could set a lance, to resist the constant fall of snow. If one leaned over a little out of the perpendicular, it could not survive the tremendous average of 50 feet of snowfall each winter. The branches, too, do not grow long, else they would snap under the weight. Every needle on the evergreens has its little burden of white, and without intermission the snow comes sifting down from the sky through the hub of the wheel.

When we stopped and the creak of the snowshoes was still, we could almost hear our hearts beat. We could certainly hear the cracking of the frozen branches in our ears. It had a baccy burbling in our pipes. It had a hissing, an almost seductive influence, that muffled of snow. So solemn is it, so little you feel yourself, that it is a consciousness which brings unconsciousness, and the calm white forest is almost deadening in its beauty. The winter forest means death.—Frederic Ramington in Harper's.

Hens That Eat Their Own Eggs.

As a rule, when hens have suitable food they don't eat their own eggs. To preserve eggs from being eaten under exceptional conditions there are a number of devices. There is, for instance, a nest with a bottom of woven wire with a mesh big enough to let an egg through. The egg goes through the thin layer of hay with which the nest is lined and through the wide meshed bottom to fall safely in a bed of hay underneath.

Another device is automatic and set in operation by the chicken itself when it steps off the nest. Thus relieved of the chicken's weight, the nest lifts up enough to roll the egg off into a place of safety, made for its reception.
Chickens are commonly carried on deep water ships on long voyages to supply eggs for the captain's table and occasionally a fowl. Chickens at sea are more likely to eat their own eggs than they are ashore. To prevent this among the chickens carried on his vessel the captain of an American ship rigged a contrivance that would eat the purpose of the egg and put it in the water. It was attached to the underside of the nest's shoots by which the egg when laid was carried safely down to a box below.—New York Sun.

MOUNTAIN ROSE.

Cold and rough the north wind blows,
 Black in the morning air,
 Who doesn't trust the Mountain Rose
 Among the sturdy barley?

All the world to learn to know,
 To love life and to sing,
 Who doesn't trust the Mountain Rose
 The way that I was going?

Not a leaf on the poplar tree,
 Not a flower on the meadow,
 Mountain Rose looked shy at me
 As we stepped out together.

Mountain Rose, so shy and free,
 Where are you now?
 Rose's cheek, half turned from me,
 The rose of life was shining.

Black and cold the north wind blows,
 Never a bird is singing,
 There's a hill in the valley of Rose
 Street as the sky's light glows.

Winter's crack on leather and broom,
 There shall I find honey,
 Rose's mouth is the honeycomb
 And Rose's laugh is honey.

Black and cold the north wind blows,
 Winter comes in fairly,
 I keep summer with Mountain Rose
 Among the sturdy barley.

THE VOLUNTEER.

The mother would not be pacified.
 "Not you," she said; "not you. The only son of my mother, and she was a widow—remember that. War is not for you."

"The country calls," argued the young patriot. "Must I consider myself at such a time?"

The girl who was to be his wife spoke up.

"Youself!" she said. "It is fight for those I love when I fight for my country."

"You, too," she answered. "I fight for those I love when I fight for my country."

"What do you know of the ball and horror of war?" demanded his mother.

"War made your father an invalid for life. Is not that enough for me to give my country? There are others who should go—rich men's sons bred in luxury, who should meet hardship for once in their lives—but you, with your meagre, which barely provides for us!"

"My work is more than that," she frowned.

"Yes," she said, "you should make it more; there will be your wife to provide for."

"If you love me," began the girl, when she broke down, burying her face in her hands.

"If you would only understand," he pleaded.

"If you know how it is—our countrymen murdered, the flag insulted, men going to the front. Must I stay here grinding out a daily existence in work that gives me mere food and shelter while those brave fellows stake their lives for us?"

"And what will become of you," cried his mother, "if you should return after the fighting is over? The position you have is mean, but it is something."

Will it be held for you till the war is over? I have seen you, my dear, when you come afterward—struggle, poverty, inability to earn daily bread."

"I love you," said the girl, "but how can you tell that I may not forget you for some one else, when you can so easily be false to me?"

"Not that," she interrupted. "But a woman gives trust for trust; she cannot wholly obliterate herself when she finds that she has held unworthy when you can leave me against my wishes?"

His mother caught up the word. "A worthy son does not forget his mother in her hour of need. You are all I have."

He looked about him. He saw the peace at home, the sun shining in at the window, the peace outside of field and brook and wood; he heard the distant low of cattle, the peaceful song of mated birds. "Then," he sighed, "you would rather I should be a coward?"

"The brave man," said the girl, drying her eyes, "is he who stands behind the woman who loves him." She smiled up at him. "Stay with me, for I am no less a soldier in your command."

She placed her arms about him, drawing him to her.

His mother came and stood beside him. "Stay with us," she echoed.

"Listen!"

It was a new voice that spoke. The words came from a small, cramped form crouching beside the stove in the corner. It was the old grandmother.

She had been there, peaceful long of mated birds. "Then," he sighed, "you would rather I should be a coward?"

"The brave man," said the girl, drying her eyes, "is he who stands behind the woman who loves him." She smiled up at him. "Stay with me, for I am no less a soldier in your command."

che reached the prison, the guards took her basket from her and divided the contents. They would not let her see her son. She ran past the soldiers up to the prison door. "Child," she called, "kiss the keyhole on your side! I will kiss it on mine. Bear up! Be brave!"

"Mother!" said the young man, "you and I think of you with a smile on her lips and not a tear in her eye."

As she spoke the old woman tore the wrappings from the package she held and disclosed a dim blade. "It was my grandfather's," she thrilled.

"Drum—drum—der—um, drum, drum!" came the sound and nearer yet.

"Drum—drum—der—um, drum, drum!" cried the young man.

The old grandmother stood in the middle of the room almost erect. A tinge of color was in her cheek and made her seem almost young. She held out the sword.

"Your country," she said, "and your God!"

"The God of peace!" the young girl whispered.

"The God of honorable war!" cried the old grandmother. The young man turned to the girl.

"My son!" his mother spoke. Her eyes were kindled. "I, too, can nurse the wounded."

"I can at least pick lint," the girl said.

The old grandmother turned her sightless eyes toward them. "There must be no cowards in my family," she said. "Love knows no cowardice; affection is the pride in bravery. Remember Valley Forge! Remember 1812! Remember your father! Listen!"

"Drum—drum—der—um, drum, drum!" The recruits were marching through the village street.

"Now am about the girl he loved, waving her handkerchief to him, though he knew her eyes were streaming. And back of all he saw the old dim sword held up by the blind grandmother.

"Drum—drum—der—um, drum, drum!" And onward he went to do battle for his country and his flag—Robert C. V. Meyers in Every Month.

THE REV. JOHN S. QUINN

APPOINTED TO CHESTERTVILLE.

His Grace Archbishop Gauthier has been pleased to appoint Rev. Father Quinn of Marysville to the charge of the congregation of Chestertville, Dundas Co., Rev. Father O'Connor of Chestertville being transferred to Marysville. It was with genuine regret that the people of this district heard that Father Quinn was to sever his connection with his present charge. When the announcement was made in St. Mary's church on Friday last the congregation was visibly affected and numerous were the expressions of regret at his proposed departure.

Rev. John S. Quinn was born at Ballindine, Co. Mayo, Ireland, on May 25th, 1861. He was educated at St. Patrick's College, Thurin, and at St. Patrick's College, Maynooth, and completed his ecclesiastical studies at the Grand Seminary, Montreal. He came to Canada in October 1884, with the late Archbishop Cleary. He was ordained to the priesthood at Belleville on August 24th, 1886. He immediately entered upon active duty first as assistant to Rev. Wm. McDonald, Glen Nevis, Glengarry, and subsequently as assistant to Rev. Father Davis of Madoc. Leaving Madoc, he was for sixteen months an assistant in St. Mary's cathedral, Kingston. He was then appointed pastor of the congregation at Brewer's Mills where he remained for 3 years. On July 5th, 1888, he entered upon duty as pastor of St. Mary's congregation, Marysville. He has been very successful in his work here. By his energy the fine brick presbytery, one of the best in the diocese, was built. Extensive improvements have been made to the church by the erection of a sacristy, the introduction of new pews and the decoration of the sacred edifice. A belfry and vault have been built. St. Mary's hall has been transferred and completed and its surroundings beautified. The relationship between himself and the people has been of the strongest kind. Possessed of a most genial disposition, Rev. Father Quinn made himself a great favorite not only with his own people but with all denominations and the Tennessie is only voicing the general opinion when it states that his removal is felt as a distinct loss to Tyendinaga and the district generally. He will be followed to his new home with the very best wishes of all and his future career will be watched with interest by many a former friend in this part of the diocese. He will take charge of his new parish on Feb. 1st.

WATCH YOUR COWS.

Dear Sirs,—Having had wonderful success with your Liniment with my stock, etc., I feel it my duty to write you in behalf of same. Our cattle were troubled with caked legs, they were so badly caked we thought they would lose the use of them, but as several vials of Douglas's Egyptian Liniment was applied twice, and in twenty-four hours we could milk as well as ever. When anything in our home or stables goes wrong your Liniment is called for at once, it never has failed. Hoping this letter may assist you in putting forward the greatest Liniment on sale.

I remain, yours truly,
Sheffield, Ont. ROBERT HARRNESS.

Some Foot Fitters These.

Slater "Foot-Form" Shape.

This shape is an old favorite, the most comfortable and foot-fitting yet produced. It is on the English style of last, with a rounded curve on outer edge of sole, tapering inward to a narrow point at the toe, which is flat and comparatively soft, though boxed with a fairly stiff leather. A feature of the "Foot-Form" is that it will fit a large foot comfortably with a shoe which seems smaller than the foot, this effect being secured by the ingenious curve which follows the line of the foot, but ends in a deceptive point. It has all the fit and comfort of a broad-toed shoe, and the man who wears the right size should never have corns. Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Button Congress, and Oxford. All colors, 14 sizes, widths B to E, Goodyear Welted, Slater method. $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

The Slater "Commonsense" Shape.

Business men should wear this shoe for its sensible, high grade, made-to-order appearance. It is the most comfortable of all the American models, tapering very little in width from across ball of foot to toe, which is round and full, but not high, with a box plant and roomy, without being clumsy or wide looking, as a square-toed shoe of equal size would be. The "Commonsense" is a man's shoe, which will be best appreciated by those who buy shoes for foot-wear and comfort first, style and fashion frills last. Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Button Congress, all leathers, all colors, 14 sizes, 6 widths. Goodyear Welted—$3, $4 and $5.

The Slater "Natural" Shape.

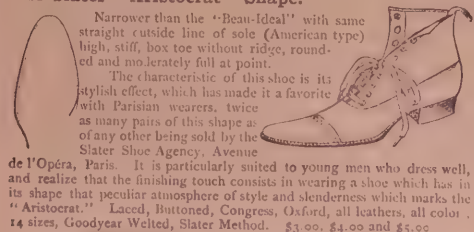

A new comfort shoe without clumsy looking toe. Roomy but neat, fitting a broad foot easily while making it look stylish and narrow. A good shoe for a foot that has been "pinched" by narrow pointed shoes, Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Button Congress. In 14 sizes, 5 widths, all colors—Goodyear Welted. $3, $4 and $5.

Slater "Bulldog" Shape.
An English fashion freak—relief for corny toes cramped into a bunch by narrow shoes. The long and stiffly boxed tip gives ease. "Foot form" shape only. Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Buttoned Congress.

and Low Cut Laced. Light Medium and Dark Tan, Seal Brown, Wine and Black. All sizes and widths. Goodyear Welted—$3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

The Slater "Aristocrat" Shape.

Narrower than the "Beau-Ideal" with same straight outside line of sole (American type) high, stiff, box toe without ridge, rounded and moderately full at point.

The characteristic of this shoe is its stylish effect, which has made it a favorite with Parisian wearers, twice as many pairs of this shape as of any other being sold by the Slater Shoe Agency, Avenue de l'Opéra, Paris. It is particularly suited to young men who dress well, and realize that the finishing touch consists in wearing a shoe which has in its shape that peculiar atmosphere of style and slenderness which marks the "Aristocrat." Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Oxford, all leathers, all colors, 14 sizes, Goodyear Welted, Slater Method. $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

The Slater "Flat Tread" Shape.

The tread of certain feet is flatter than that of others, shorter from heel to ball of foot, longer from ball to tips of toes. Feet like these are powerful and not easily wearied, but much of their strength is lost in the ordinary shoe, the sole of which curves sharply upwards, bringing all the strain of a flat foot on the toes, and bending it unnaturally at the ball. 14 sizes, 5 widths, all colors, Laced, Congress, and Oxford. Goodyear Welted—Slater method. $3, $4 and $5.

MAN has been wonderfully and curiously made, but his feet were never intended to be the curiosities which many of them are.

Modern footwear (read foot-prisons) has transformed his feet from sources of comfort and support to painful, distorted nerve centres.

They have been forced into shoes modelled on ideal lasts, the conceptions of workers in wood, who never studied the peculiarities of feet.

To complete the work of destruction these "ideal" shoes (save the mark) are varnished with waxy dressings which close up the pores of the leather, and in these dank, ill-fitting dungeons, man's feet have sweltered and absorbed poisons thrown off by perspiration, which should have escaped through the leather pores plugged with wax and varnish.

Then came the "Slater shoe" made to fit these distorted feet and to preserve the shapes of the feet that remain normal.

Every kind of men's feet were studied—a general average of classified distortions was struck and after months of study special lasts were made modelled to fit real human feet not merely the ideal of a last designer's conception.

Allowances for style and changing fashions must be made but the interior—foot shape—of the "Slater Shoe" never varies—like a room that may look longer or narrower—larger or smaller according as it is furnished and decorated—but it is always the same sized and shaped room.

After the shapes had been selected, the dressing was studied. You could not live in a house with the doors and windows all sealed up.

Neither can your foot remain healthy in a shoe coated and air proof with the wax and varnish of common dressings.

"Slater Shoe Polish" is made to protect "Slater Shoes" and the feet they cover.

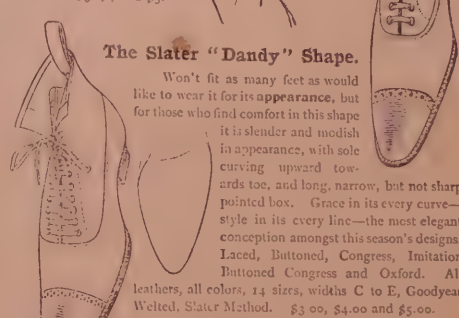

It is a thin oily fluid that sinks into the leather, feeds its fibres, slakes its thirst—the plague of fine leather—and leaves a fine powder (not a wax paste that cracks the leather as soon as it is thick enough) that burnishes the actual leather like emery does steel.

These then are the homes in which you are invited to comfortably install feet with corns, or bunions or bad nails or calloused soles or painful joints, and they fit the first time they are worn, and always after, because the shrink and stretch has been forever taken out of them by remaining six days on their lasts. (N. B.—Common Shoes are only on the lasts one day.)

Matchless, footfitting, Goodyear welted—tackless, lumpless soles.—

The Slater "Beau Ideal" Shape.

—A shoe that looks slender but fits a comparatively wide foot—comfortable for long spreading toes. The ridge toe, boxed with solid sole leather gives greater room and cannot break down. Made in Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Button Congress and Oxford. All leathers—all colors—14 sizes, 5 widths, Goodyear Welt—Slater Method. $3, $4 and $5.

The Slater "Dandy" Shape.

Won't fit as many feet as would like to wear it for its appearance, but for those who find comfort in this shape it is slender and modish in appearance, with sole curving upward towards toe, and long, narrow, but not sharp pointed box. Grace in its every curve—style in its every line—the most elegant conception amongst this season's designs. Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Buttoned Congress and Oxford. All leathers, all colors, 14 sizes, widths C to E, Goodyear Welted, Slater Method. $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

The Slater "Broadfoot" Shape.

Shaped for short thick feet, wide English model, broad and full throughout, wide tread, flat, thick sole, and stoutly stitched. A masculine shoe for portly men. Built solely for easy walking, foot comfort and hard wear though of fine materials. Laced and congress; colored and black. All sizes and widths. Goodyear Welted. Slater Method.

The Slater "Arrow Point" Shape.

Of American fashion, a shoe that fits comfortably, yet if constrained by distance, is made for the length a broad foot may wear it. The sole would not reach within an inch of the point. Most other shoes of this style break down across the toe, on account of pressure on the hollow portion, and the "Arrow Point" is specially constructed to overcome this, while permitting the free use of toe joints. Laced, Buttoned, Congress, Imitation Button Congress, Oxford. All leathers, all colors, 14 sizes, 6 widths, Goodyear Welted, Slater method. $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00.

The "Juvenile" Slater Shoe.

The makers of Slater Shoes have designed and made a line of shoes to protect young developing feet. It is in youth that the greatest injury is done to feet and the worst ill contracted. A shoe too short for a tender foot will produce a bunion in a couple of days, and it stays for life. The Slater "Juvenile" shoe fits young feet perfectly, is as well made as its elders, Goodyear Welted, Slater method, price $2.00 and $2.50.

DEATH OF MRS. JAMES N. SANDERSON OF NORTHPORT.

A correspondent writing from Northport says "A very sad occurrence took place here on Saturday in the death of Eliza, the dearly beloved wife of James N. Sanderson, of this place after a short illness. Doctors Pearson and Curry did everything that medical skill could suggest to save her life but it soon became evident that God was claiming her as his own. Deceased, who was twenty-nine years of age, was the daughter of I. L. Mills and to her parents she proved a most dutiful daughter. At the age of twenty-one she was married to James Nelson Sanderson, merchant of Northport, formerly of Napanee and more recently a clerk in the store of B. Cryan. During her youth she was noted for exceeding cheerfulness and she was a great favorite with her young companions, and in later years she was held in the highest esteem and affection by all. At the age of twenty she took a firm stand for Christ and in that stand she never faltered. She was an enthusiastic and untiring church worker. In the home she was an ideal woman. The funeral services were conducted on Tuesday by Rev. A. J. H. Striker and A. R. Brown in the church which she was wont to attend with such great regularity and at which she had before seen in the village upon such an occasion. The remains were placed in the vault of the Pictou cemetery. It is unnecessary to add that the whole community extended to the sorrowing husband and relatives their heartfelt sympathy."

Accordingly tenders are advertised for to-day. The work will be completed before the frost leaves the ground—Toronto World.

HE WORKED THE COMBINATION.

St. Catharines Local Expert Proves to Be a Gravelle.

St. Catharines, Jan. 18.—A good argument for Ponton was enacted when Mr. John Quinn, proprietor of the Russell House here, changed the combination of his safe about ten days ago and locked it before making note of the numbers. He then wrote to a safe works and asked that a man be sent to unlock it, but the reply came that the combination could not be worked out, it being a five-numbered one and impossible of solution. This fact became known to Mr. Wells, manager of the Electric Light Company, and he volunteered to do the trick, and furthermore, he offered to bet $100 that he could open the safe. He was laughed at, but he was given a chance to make his word good. Last night he applied himself at the task and in two hours his efforts were rewarded by the combination working out.

MEN DEVoured BY WOLVES.

The Howling Wolves Are Numerous in the Lumber Camps.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—A gentleman from out of the Ottawa, who came to this city last evening, states that in the vicinity of the Ottawa limits hungry wolves are ravaging the country, and the shantymen are compelled to go armed in many cases, in order to protect their lives. One of the men employed in Mr. Alex. Fraser's camps went out a few days ago and a short time afterwards his head and feet were found in the woods, the body having been devoured by wolves, whose tracks were plainly traceable. Two men who left one of the camps at Christmas time to go to Ottawa, have not been heard of since, and it is feared that they, too, have met a terrible fate. In no previous year have the wolves been so numerous or ferocious, and hundreds have been killed by the shantymen.

PROF. MACADAM DROWNED.

Wandered Down to Toronto Bay and Went Through the Ice.

His Seal Cap and His Spaniel's Intelligence, and the Waters Being Drugged, His Body Is Recovered Another Case of Canine Love That Is Remarkable Sketch of the Dead Man's Career.

Toronto, Jan. 18.—The finding of a sealskin cap on the ice near the Canadian Iron Company's docks, at the foot of West Market street on Monday night, has proved to be the forerunner of a tale of tragedy. At noon yesterday, Joseph Gooswin, Jr., of the island, found the body of the late Prof. Macadam in the icy water near where the cap was found and the little spaniel watched.

The body was somewhat mutilated, the finger nails were broken, as if from the victim's struggles to get out of the water. Upon his person was found his initialed watch, which had stopped at 9:25.

The body was removed to Millard's on Yonge street, and an inquest will be held today.

For the past three months the deceased had been living at 10 Mutual street, where he was a teacher in the school. He took long strolls in the evening. On Monday he left home at 7:15 p.m., accompanied by his cocker spaniel, saying he would return to Newmarket at 10 o'clock.

At midnight, and the household was alarmed. Mrs. Macadam remained up all night.

At 4 a.m. the faithful spaniel came home, dripping wet and shivering with the cold. It was now evident he had been trying to get out of the water all night.

The dog was admitted to the house, and immediately ran upstairs to his master's room. Then he ran to the side of the bed, and jumping upon her knees, placed his two front paws on both her shoulders and attempted to kiss her.

Mr. Macadam, not having returned with the dog, his wife became suspicious of what had happened. The little dog was soon admitted to the house, and Mrs. Macadam recognized the sealskin cap in the hands of the police and inquired.

Career of the Dead Man.

The deceased was born in Scotland, and, on coming to this country about 18 years ago, he became a teacher in the public schools and was given charge of the Presbyterian Church there. Later on he went to Quebec, and was Professor in Morin College.

He came to this city, and has preached in different pulpits at various times. Last night he occupied the pulpit of West Market Church at 10 o'clock.

The deceased was also an author, having prepared a book for the guidance of candidates for the communion, which was regarded as a standard work. At the time of his death he had no regular church, but intended applying for a church.

No arrangement had been made for his funeral. It is likely that Mr. A. Cameron of St. Stephen, N.B., a brother of Mrs. Macadam, will arrive to take care of the funeral.

Mr. B. Miller had sent in his resignation as an instructor. They needed more instructors. Good men were hard to get. The work was very heavy, and it was so getting better, and he hoped they would be able to get another good man to accept the position for a year or two.

The "Gray Matter."

The writer has examined many brains of persons morally or intellectually below the average—such as murderers, negroes and others sunk in ignorance.

He has invariably found the layers of the brain, or gray matter, to be thicker than that of Daniel Webster's brain. Elephants, porpoises, whales, dolphins and the grampus all have this layer thicker than the most intellectual man.

Another great objection to locating the mind in the gray matter of the brain is that this substance is found in the interior part of the spinal cord and in all the nerve centers throughout the body.

So that if mind is situated in it, it is not confined to the brain, but dwells in the spine also, and is distributed all through the human frame.

Still another objection lies in the fact that wherever the gray matter exists, the nerves are great ones. Such a conclusion would lead to confusion and needless pain and disappointment.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Evening Dress in Kansas City.

The dress suit is the most democratic garment in the world. It meets the requirements of good form, whether it was made six years ago or last month. Attracted in evening costume, whether the avalsallows are long or short, narrow or wide, all men look, practically speaking, alike, whether they are wage earners or millionaires.

The dress suit levels distinctions and illustrates the possibilities of a correct style. The young man who has made a good selection in his rented broadcloth severely greets his wealthy rival who has paid for his London clothes a price like $350.

Even the fane of a world grows small when wrapped in a avalsallows coat among many others of the same cut. When the dress suit becomes the regular evening calling and theater dress for Kansas City, as it should be, the poor class will profit by it a full cubit of serenity and self respect.—Kansas City Star.

Charles's Authority.

"I'm here," replied Charles, who was very fond of reading Bible stories, "you ain't any better than the Lord, are you?"

"Because," answered the mother in surprise. "Why did you ask that?"

"Because," replied the little fellow, "the Lord called Samuel three times, and I didn't get mad at him."

THE SMELTING WORKS IN FULL BLAST.

DESERONTO'S NEW INDUSTRY.

The Molten Metal Drawn off Yesterday for the First Time.

VIEW OF THE MAIN BUILDING AND FURNACE FROM THE BAY.

The citizens of Deseronto will always regard January 25th as one of the most noted days in the calendar, because on that date, in this year 1899, the smelting works of the Deseronto Iron Company were for the first time set in motion for the manufacture of charcoal iron. Without any flourish of trumpets or demonstration of any kind, but in that business and matter of fact way which is characteristic of Deseronto the process of manufacturing iron was commenced and another great and important industry added to the number of those for which our busy town is already distinguished. And yet though there was no open or apparent manufacture of civic pleasure and satisfaction it is needless to state that a thrill of pride filled many a breast and the pulse of every citizen beat more rapidly when the word passed around town that the "smelter" was really now at work.

shared by all as was evidenced by the substantial endorsement of the property owners of the town. The manufacture of charcoal iron although for very many years carried on very extensively in Michigan and other parts of the United States has never attained very large proportions in Canada. The only plant at present in active operation in this country is that at Recluse Forges, in Quebec, with a total capacity of probably 90 tons per month. Many years ago works on a small scale were started at Matamoras and in Algoma. In this province, and there was also a small plant near Woodstock, N. B. At that time the market for such iron was comparatively limited in Canada and there were other obstacles which discouraged the promoters. In fact the works established at that time were in large measure experimental and their failure did not reflect in any way on the skill or enterprise of their promoters. Although Canada has such vast areas of wooded lands and though in many parts of the country there are extensive deposits of iron ore, it is home market for all kinds of iron has been comparatively limited and Canadian iron works must also necessarily find it very difficult to compete with the immense plants of Great Britain and the United States which, from the very fact of producing such vast quantities, can do so at the minimum cost per ton. It is gratifying that capitalists recognising the growing possibilities for the iron industry in Canada should have chosen Deseronto as the seat of the first extensive plant of this kind in this province of Ontario. The location of such a plant at Deseronto is primarily the result of a plan entered into by the late Hugo Burghardt Rathbun, founder of Deseronto, and his sons E. W. Rathbun and the late E. S. Rathbun. They early conceived the idea of turning to account the waste material of their saw mills, and founded several factories with that end in view. To this end great works for the conversion of sawdust into gas were started. The town was illuminated in this way for one year, but it was found to be unprofitable and afterwards the manufacture of fire

THE ORE DOCK AND TRESTLE

The establishment of smelting works in Deseronto has been looked forward to for many years. Time and again they became a topic of conversation and time and again hopeful anticipations were disappointed and it was not surprising that many became skeptical of the institution of such an industry in the town. Nevertheless there were always a faithful few who were confident that the busy brain and indomitable will of the chief promoter would ultimately succeed in the achievement of this great purpose. It is gratifying to know that when the time for action came his convictions were practically somewhat surprising that capitalists during the past twenty years have never directed their attention to the smelting of iron by means of charcoal. The iron thus produced is almost indispensable in several lines of manufacturing and there is a market for it in Europe as well as in this continent. But on the other hand it must be remembered that the industrial development of Canada only covers at best but a few decades, and other and more profitable branches of industry less view very naturally were the first to attract the attention of enterprising investors. Moreover, even at best the proofing terra cotta was a centre upon Wood distillation was, after a number of costly experiments, made a success and has been carried on for several years, the charcoal being exported to Detroit for the smelting works in that city. It was felt all along that this should be utilized in this country for the same purpose. E. W. Rathbun, general manager of the Rathbun Company, accordingly entered into negotiations with the Gaylord Iron Company and other American capitalists and after some years succeeded in realising this active co-operation. To him it must be most gratifying to see the labors of so many years crowned with success, and every reader of this article will unite in extending him the heartiest congratulations on the realization of his untiring efforts to secure for Deseronto and Ontario an industry capable of such vast possibilities in the industrial development of Canada. To his energy and foresight, more than to any other cause, is this triumph due. It is to be regretted that the late E. S. Rathbun, the first secretary-treasurer of the Iron Company and so long identified with this contemplated undertaking, did not live to see the work in active operation. To the gentlemen in the United States who have invested so much capital in this industry the people of Ontario owe a great debt of gratitude. It is true that with them the undertaking is in one sense no experiment. Mr. Gerhauser, the president, is one of the best known iron manufacturers on the continent. E. B. Gaylord, the general manager of the company, has had a large experience in the manufacture of charcoal iron and is thoroughly conversant with every detail. He must be congratulated on the success which has thus far crowned the undertaking. He has been successful in securing over the work and it must be pleasing to him to see the machinery working so correctly. Mr. Gaylord assures us that the works start at a most favorable time in a commercial point of view, the demand for charcoal iron being at present brisk and the stocks on hand much less than usual.

The magnitude and importance of this enterprise as it will effect this district can be best understood by considering in the first place the vast area of wooded country from which the supply of charcoal timber must be derived and with which the furnace must be connected by railway and water communications so as to ensure the economical transportation of material. It is unnecessary to inform our readers that the Bay of Quinte Railway system is absolutely necessary for the carriage of the wood. It taps the large territory upon which the Rathbun Company is engaged in their great lumber operations. It also reaches out and makes connections with other lines which penetrate vast areas covered with the coarse woods from which the charcoal is to be manufactured. Then, besides, consider the long period of time and the numerous experiments necessary to establish the wood distillation works in Deseronto for the purpose of converting the coarse woods into charcoal and other commercial products. Without these works charcoal could not be produced at a cost which would permit its use in the manufacture of iron in this present day of low prices. The large expenditure which have been made in the erection of the vast plant of the distillation works by the Rathbun Company who originally conceived them and now in progress by the Standard Chemical Company could only have been made on the assumption that the charcoal would be used in the making of iron by the smelting works. The wood distillation plant is quite as important a part of the smelting enterprise as the furnace itself. The other for its existence and both must be of great benefit to the town and district. Even at the present contemplated output of 12,000 tons of iron per annum, the wood distillation plant, in order to furnish the necessary charcoal for smelting the ore, will require annually about 20,000 cords of coarse timber, equal to six or seven loads a day. The supply of this low grade timber, in addition to these, the business employment in the rear townships during the cold weather to at least 200 men and 80 teams of horses. In addition to these the business employment in the transportation of this wood by water and rail. Then there are possibilities that in this fully equipped industry may be linked on to the pres ent plants, thus increasing the capabilities and importance of the present enterprise. It is not necessary to refer to the industry from a provincial or national point of view.

THE PLANT

The smelting works of the Deseronto Iron Company are situated in the east end of the town south of Main street and directly on the shore of the Bay of Quinte. The line of the Bay of Quinte Railway has been extended to the works thus giving excellent connection for the carriage of material by rail as well as by water. The ore dock is an extensive structure with three levels for lifting the ore from the holds of vessels, and with a trestle and tramway for carrying the ore to the piling ground adjoining the furnace. The accompanying cut will give the reader a good idea of the dock and trestle. The works cover an area of four acres of ground. The main building is of large proportions and the engine room is a substantial structure. We will not weary the reader with a technical description of the plant. Suffice it to say that the furnace will for the present turn out about 1,000 tons of iron per month, a total of 12,000 tons per annum. By a change of the furnace this capacity can easily be found necessary, and the castings are large enough for even the production of 100 tons per day. The furnace itself is 61 feet high with "boiler" 9 ft. 6 in. in diameter. The flame passes through four tuyeres. A charcoal pit with bell and hopper is used, and the ore is carefully weighed and lifted by elevator to the top of the furnace and dumped therein. These constitute what is called a "charge." The quantity of ore in a charge is about 2,000 lbs. From this is produced about 1100 lbs. equal to 58 per cent. of pig iron. Careful assays are made of the materials and the iron is graded by analysis, there being fourteen different grades, these depending on the temper of the metal. The molten metal is drawn off at the bottom of the furnace, the adjoining floor being covered with sand from eight to ten inches deep in which channels have been made. The ore, used, hard and soft, hematite, the ad-joining floor being covered with sand from eight to ten inches deep in which channels have been made. The ore, used, hard and soft, hematite, the ad-joining floor being covered with sand from eight to ten inches deep in which channels have been made. The ore, used, hard and soft, hematite, the ad-joining floor being covered with sand from eight to ten inches deep in which channels have been made.

There will be three runs of the metal each day. There are 27 charcoal iron smelters in Michigan. Miss Sherwood is assayer and chemist for the works. Thos. Rowland is accountant in the office of the Company. The first run off was made at 1 p. m. on Thursday, Jan. 26th. There has been a rush of visitors to the works during the past few days. Felix de Clauin is the engineer, and Stephen Fallon founder of the works. J. M. Hurley, M. P. for East Hastings, was a visitor at the works yesterday. The works were erected under the supervision of M. C. Frenstun, C. E. of Detroit. The furnace runs day and night and the average term of a charcoal furnace is two years. Both the Ontario and the Dominion governments give substantial encouragement to the iron industry. The ore used in the Deseronto furnace came from what is known as the Marquette and Vermilion ranges. The Gaylord Iron Company commenced operation in Detroit in 1896. Prior to 1886 it was known as the Detroit & Lake Superior Iron Co. The present officers of the company are W. Gerbauer, president, and F. E. Gerbauer, secretary-treasurer and general manager. E. W. Rathbun was the first president of the company. The works are thoroughly complete in every respect. All the labor saving devices are in use and every provision made against fire. Mr. Gaylord will employ Canadian labor as far as possible.

CZAR MAY EXPEL HIM.

Tolstol, the Russian Novelist, Has Made a Host of Enemies.

CRIME: HE HELPED DOUKHOBORS

The Action of Count Tolstol's eldest son, in personally assisting the Russian Quakers to move to Canada, has aroused the ire of the Autocratic Ruler of All the Russias.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 25.—The report of the expulsion of Count Tolstol in the near future will not down, despite the seemingly cordial meeting which the great Russian idealist had with the Czar recently.

The report is founded principally on the fact that the Czar has made a host of enemies by the aid he has given to the emigrating Doukhobors, or Russian Quakers, who are founding settlements in the Canadian Northwest. The Czar is highly displeased at the action of Count Tolstol's eldest son, who is making preparations to accompany a large number of emigrants to Canada, where he will help them to acquire homes, after which he will return under the parental roof.

The Doukhobors say they receive inspiration directly from heaven, without sacerdotal or priestly intervention. They regard the priesthood and the sacraments, reject the doctrine of the Trinity and refuse to take the oath or to enlist in military service.

This great dates from the days of Peter the Great, when small communities were started all over the Russian Empire. They suffered great persecution under Catherine II. and Paul I. Alexander I. tolerated them, confining them, however, to the Province of Tomsk. In 1864 they were removed to the district of Amur, in Trans-Caucasia. They are industrious, and are excellent farmers and cattle raisers.

JAMAICA IS IN BAD SHAPE.

Something Radical Must Be Done Else There Will Be Bankruptcy.

London, Jan. 25.—An official circular has been issued containing the report of the West Indian commission from Jamaica to Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, and the commission is in progress, but he could express no opinion as to the prospects of their success.

The circular states that Mr. Chamberlain informed the commission that negotiations for the conclusion of a reciprocity treaty between the British West Indies and the United States were in progress, but he could express no opinion as to the prospects of their success.

A solution simultaneously of the French shore question and the matter of the occupation of St. Pierre and Miquelon is being little better than a big smuggling center, detrimental alike to Newfoundland, Canada and the United States.

Dreyfus to Be Questioned. London, Jan. 25.—The Daily Telegraph publishes the following despatch from Cayenne, French Guiana: "Fresh instructions to interrogate Dreyfus respecting the depositions of Stas and the French rights there were incontestable, that no one questioned them and that there was no reason to suppose that they would not be respected. The debate was then closed."

The Earthquakes in Greece. Athens, Jan. 25.—The seismic disturbances which began on Sunday in the provinces of Peloponnese still continue, and are much less violent reports from the earthquake district show that the town of Nisi, in the Department of Messenia, seven miles west of Kalamata, has been greatly damaged. STEPS DOWN AND OUT.

Oscar, King of Sweden, Abdicates in Favor of His Iron-Will'd Son—Some of His Reasons.

Stockholm, Jan. 25.—King Oscar, who reached his 70th year last Saturday, has provisionally placed the reins of government in the hands of his eldest son, the Crown Prince Gustaf.

While it is generally reported that the abdication of the King, who has been in feeble health for more than two years, is only temporary, those nearest to the court who are in a position to know the state of affairs, declare that he will never again return to the throne.

The step was taken by order of the court physicians, who claim that, though some improvements have been manifested since the last serious illness of the king, further participation in public affairs would prove fatal.

King Oscar's condition has been made known by the rebellious spirit which his Norwegian subjects have exhibited of late. For years His Majesty has tried to put the demands of the Liberal party, which are regarded as unpatriotic and unreasonable by the Swedes.

Most bitter to the King was the action of the Norwegian Storting before the Crown Prince Gustaf was born in June, 1888. His wife is the Princess Victoria of Baden, a lady of remarkable linguistic accomplishments, and a leader in all charitable work.

King Oscar has already left Stockholm and will spend the balance of the winter in Salto, Baden.

The Case of Sydney O. Slocum. All the Evidence in the trial of Sydney O. Slocum, charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary Collins, was taken yesterday.

Mr. Victor Collier and Miss Good-fellow, who live at the Lucas House, testified that they heard screams coming from room 20 on the night of the murder, and saw Mr. Lucas, proprietor of the house, come upstairs to quell the disturbance.

Thomas Donlon, one of the men who found Mrs. Collins in the room with the prisoner, told of his meeting Collier, W. F. Young and Menasha, and the three to the Lucas House.

C. N. Pirie, a reporter, related the story of the affair as told to him by Slocum, and in several respects corroborated Mrs. Collier's testimony.

The defence was commenced in the afternoon after Mr. Robinson argued that there was no evidence to go to a jury.

The testimony of Miss Lucas, Alfred Houlton, James McQuay and Edmund Slocum, among others, from the Deseronto, went to show that there was nothing in the woman's appearance to suggest that she had been drugged.

Mr. Robinson conferred with his client whether or not he would enter the box in his own behalf, but Slocum declined, and asked that the jury be directed that Slocum was innocent.

Mr. Justice Robertson will deliver his charge this morning.

A MAN LOST.

Lost! No man understands the full meaning of that word like the man who has been lost. He will tell you: "I was in the woods going home, suddenly when I realized I'd missed the trail. With a cry of 'Lost!' I broke into a run headlong and ignorant of the direction I was going."

The first impulse of a man lost in the woods is to run. The only safe thing is to sit right down and reason out the position.

Sometimes a business man gets up at the usual hour, breakfasts, kisses his wife and starts for the office. He has for some time seen signs that he was off the track of health. To-day the signs multiply. His brain is dull and dizzy, his heart does not beat right, his head is stiff, his limbs feel tremulous. He is afraid. He realizes that he's far from a healthy man, and suddenly, like a panther from the thicket, leaps on him. "You are a lost man!"

The first impulse is to run for help, though the way is honey-combed with the pitfalls of quackery. But the rational man faces the facts, sits down and thinks over the position and its probable results.

That is the man we want to talk to. Disease in almost any form is generally accompanied by the failure of the organs of digestion and nutrition. To establish these organs in healthy action, the blood is at once enriched, the body nourished and the general health restored. This result is invariably accomplished by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a stomachic, strengthening, nerve-nourishing, muscle-making, blood-purifying medicine. It has cured thousands who thought they were entirely lost. The "Discovery" is not a stimulant and contains no alcohol or whisky. Sold at all medicine stores.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. We are willing to trust to his answer.

For twenty-five years doctors have prescribed our Emulsion for paleness, weakness, nervous exhaustion, and for all diseases that cause loss in flesh.

Its creamy color and its pleasant taste make it especially useful for thin and delicate children.

No other preparation of cod-liver oil is like it. Don't lose time and risk your health by taking something unknown and untried. Keep in mind that SCOTT'S EMULSION has stood the test for a quarter of a century.
